

THE MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE BEFORE AND DURING THE UNIVERSITY HEARING

THE UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES MAKE A MAGNIFICENT PRESENTATION OF THEIR SIDE OF THE CASE

Facts and Figures Eloquently Laid Before the Legislature by Those Who Have the Real Interest of the Big Institution at Heart.

COLONEL HAMMOND AND DR. FELTON DELIVER SPEECHES

The Former Deals in Logic and Satire by Turns.

THE LATTER PLEAS FOR HIS STATE

All the Trustees Present, and the Senate is Finally Admitted—Thrilling Scene from Start to Finish—Mr. Blalock Asks No Questions.

The trustees of the University of Georgia yesterday gave to the Georgia legislature as account of their stewardship. They gave it plainly, simply and with dignity befitting the occasion. There was nothing about the proceedings of the pyrotechnic order which has accompanied the recent attacks upon the big institution. It was not an affair which aroused the trustees to hysteria. In all that was said and done the gentlemen charged with the management of the university maintained a strong protest against the indiscriminate charge made against them, but their defense was businesslike, earnest, effective and to the point.

And they won! No matter what may happen in future, either as expressed by the voice or the vote of the legislature, it may be said in all truth that no fair-minded man left the hall of the house of representatives yesterday with any other feeling than that of renewed loyalty to the university. So far as the trustees are personally concerned, there was ample proof that they all had done, and were doing, their full duty. So far as the scheme to break up the university by removing the agricultural college is concerned, it was shown that such dismemberment was advised by about the same sort of people who would cut off a man's head in order that both his brain and his hands could be profitably employed at different places at the same time.

A Magnificent Audience. The scene of the hearing was most impressive, and its impressiveness was in no wise marred by a senseless squabble between the house and the senate, which preceded it. The house wanted to receive the trustees during the morning session and the senate wanted to receive them at night. The resolution of the upper body laying itself to the conference and changing the hour was received by the house at 10 o'clock, and its discussion occupied nearly an hour. The resolution was finally disagreed to, but a compromise was reached whereby the hearing was ordered to be held in joint session at 11 o'clock, instead of by the committee of the whole of the house. This let the senators in, but they came in somewhat ruffled spirits and without expressing any gratitude for the hour of an invitation.

Immediately following them came the trustees of the university and as these distinguished gentlemen walked down the aisle both the floor and galleries broke into loud applause. They did not look like a set of men about whom there should be any doubt as to personal integrity or business capacity. On the contrary, their very appearance suggested all the intellectual strength, the experience and all the force of character that their high position demands.

Glance at the Trustees. It would be pretty difficult to find either in Georgia or elsewhere a finer set of men. They were led by Governor Atkinson, who strode down the aisle arm in arm with former Congressman N. J. Hammond, back of them Dr. W. H. Felton, the good old veteran of many battles in the interest of education. In the line also were United States Senator Bacon and former Governor McDaniel. Side by side marched Francis A. Atkinson, the retiring member of the supreme court of Georgia, and Hal Lewis, his successor. It would be easy to go on in the analysis of the honored list, but that would be simply a waste of space. They are the sort of men who don't need to be described to a Georgia audience.

There was a good deal said in favor of the university later in the day, but no argument in its favor was more effective than the appearance of the trustees themselves, and it is not surprising that President Berner should have been compelled

July. Mr. Felker's bill was inspired by the fact that the time of assembling the legislature is very inconvenient to the farmers who are in the general assembly. The fall of the year is a very busy time on the farm, but in July the farmers are at leisure.

All Honor to Davis. The memory of Jefferson Davis, president of the southern confederacy, was honored by the house. That body finally unanimously passed the bill by Mr. Oliver, of Burke, which provided that hereafter the birthday of Mr. Davis shall be a legal holiday in this state. Mr. Oliver spoke but a few words on his bill. He simply said that Georgia should accord to the memory of the dead that honor and tribute which his acts while living won for him. The bill was passed without a dissenting voice.

The University Fight. The expected session arrived on schedule time at 10:15. At that hour the senate resolution providing for a joint session for the purpose of hearing the trustees of the university—at their own request—was read. The resolution was passed by a vote of 10-9.

Colonel Morgan Rawls succeeded in having the senate resolution amended so that the charter of the town of Guyton. The bill is intended to change the ratio of taxation in Guyton.

There was a good deal said in favor of the university later in the day, but no argument in its favor was more effective than the appearance of the trustees themselves, and it is not surprising that President Berner should have been compelled

"If it required time enough to satisfy the gentleman from Spalding I should say 'amen' to Mr. Moulden's reply, which shot out like an electric flash. "But," continued Mr. Moulden, "I think to prevent the matter fully, it will not require more than two hours."

Mr. Hall's Point. The friends of the trustees were rather surprised when Mr. Hall, of Coweta, arose and said that the trustees could not be heard as the regular order came ahead of anything, and that to hear the trustees the regular order would have to be displaced, which would require a three-fourths vote. There was considerable debate on this question. Mr. Blalock moved to suspend the rules until the trustees were heard. Speaker Jenkins ruled that Mr. Hall's point was not well taken, as there was no division called on the amendment as adopted.

Mr. Hall argued that his position was right; that the senate resolution had come to the house for action. Mr. Oliver had offered an amendment to change the time of hearing until noon, then Mr. Charters had offered to amend Mr. Oliver's amendment by making the time 11 a. m. and that the house had not by a three-fourths vote displaced the regular order. Mr. Jenkins again overruled the point.

Mr. Hall arose to another point of order. He said that the business before the house was the question of the trustees of the university. He said that the house had never adopted the amendment of Mr. Oliver, of Burke, as amended by the amendment of Mr. Charters, but had only adopted the amendment of Mr. Charters. The senate message arrived at this time announcing that that body had concurred in the resolution to hear the trustees at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Speaker. I make the point of order that the house passed no such resolution. Mr. Oliver's resolution was never voted upon. Mr. Hall persisted, but the speaker was determined, and said that while the house was in a good way of not raising the proper issue.

The doorkeeper walked down the aisle and said: "The speaker is at the door and awaits the pleasure of the house." "Let the senate be admitted," called the speaker.

The upper house in a body walked down the aisle and one of the members was heard to remark: "The speaker is at the door and awaits the pleasure of the house." "Let the senate be admitted," called the speaker.

DEKALB COUNTY FIGHT UP TODAY

Legal Decision Will Have a Very Strong Bearing on Case.

QUESTION OF TWO-THIRD VOTE

He'd Only To Affect Those Voting and Not Entire House.

THIS WILL HELP STONE MOUNTAIN

Both Sides Are Putting in Hard Licks at the Finish—Representative Henderson Replies to the Card from Representative Morrison.

The close of the big fight over the location of the DeKalb county courthouse finds neither side willing to admit that they feel discouraged and gives no evidence of a let-up until the last vote is counted. Yesterday the Stone Mountain boomers, who have never shown any lack of enthusiasm, became jubilant to the farthest degree by the announcement from a very high legal source that they would only require a two-thirds vote to win, and not, as the Decatur folks had contended, a two-thirds vote of the entire house. Under the ruling they will have to get at least 88 votes, while it takes 118 to make a two-thirds vote of the entire house.

A quorum of the house and a quorum of the senate constitute the general assembly of Georgia. When the constitution requires a two-thirds vote of the general assembly, it means two-thirds of each house, or, in other words, two-thirds of a quorum of each house voting upon that particular measure. However, as "no bill can become a law unless it shall receive a majority of the votes of the members elected," a bill providing for the removal of a county site must receive two-thirds of the votes cast, and those voting must constitute a quorum.

"For example, if there are cast one hundred votes upon the passage of such a bill, and ninety of those votes are in favor of the measure, the same passes the house and meets both requirements of the constitution above referred to; but if it receives only eighty votes out of one hundred, it would not properly pass the house, for the reason that every bill must receive eighty-eight votes."

"We Win," Says Hal Lewis.

As soon as Stone Mountain got this decision Hal Lewis, who spent most of the day at the capitol studying the legal points involved in the controversy, said: "I don't think this removes whatever doubt there might be as to this point, but I have never believed that the legislature would carry the other view."

Want Calvin for Governor. The ladies of Georgia are in favor of running Mr. Martin Calvin, of Richmond, for governor. Since he secured the passage of the bill which allows women physicians the privilege of coming to the state university, they are showering him with congratulatory letters and messages of thanks. One of the brainiest ladies of the state, and who, by the way, is a very noble physician, has been showered with congratulatory letters and messages of thanks.

MR. HAMMOND'S GREAT SPEECH. Full Text of His Magnificent Defense of Georgia's University. Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the General Assembly: I am the mouthpiece this morning, by authority, of the board of trustees of the university. They by law are public servants, subject to the control of the general assembly. I believe that we have the honor to have in the board of trustees of the university, no man of them gets any pay, except occasional thanks and much criticism. We have heard of the trustees of the university, and we have heard of the trustees of the university, and we have heard of the trustees of the university.

The Hostile Sentiment. It may be pardoned saying that there is in the air some hostile sentiment to the university. It is not a hostile sentiment to the university, but it is a hostile sentiment to the university.

The Club Dinner

A Great Social Success

The entertainments of the Capital City Club are always notably brilliant affairs, but the recent movement of the house committee to inaugurate a series of formal parties in the nature of the dinner dances will greatly popularize the social side of the club—social side in which the ladies may take part.

The first of the series of these dinners was given at the club last night, and was the means of bringing out a brilliant gathering of members and their lady friends. Dinner was served from 7:30 till 9 o'clock in the dining rooms, and the prettily decorated tables and brilliantly lighted apartments made the scene a charming one. The menu was delicious and served with that precision and smoothness reflecting great credit on the club cuisine. After the dinner the young ladies present repaired to the ballroom, where an informal German was danced, thus delightfully concluding the evening's entertainment.

The "dinner dances" will be given at regular intervals during the winter season.

King-Young.

Last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex King occurred the marriage of Miss Louise Young, daughter of Mr. Harry W. Young, Rev. Alvin Knight performed the ceremony in his usual impressive manner, and in the presence of a large assembly of friends. The house was beautifully adorned for the occasion in tropical plants and a number of beautiful cut flowers added their brilliant hues towards the artistic effect. In the drawing room where the ceremony was performed white and green were evident in the decorations, and in the dining room there was a graceful array of flowers. The bride was attended by Miss Leonard as her maid of honor, and the following young ladies were bridesmaids: Misses Martha Goode, Lillie Howard and Elizabeth Foster. The groom was attended by Mr. Edgar Hunt, and the groomsmen were Messrs. Robert Cowham, William Hansell and Chess Howard. The bride and groom, after the drawing room were immediately preceded by Master Edwin and Miss Mary King, the young nephew and niece of the bride.

The bride's wedding dress was of satin duchesse, the bodice trimmed with lace and chiffon, and the bridesmaids wore becoming gowns of white organdy and carried white chrysanthemums. The bride's bouquet was of white chrysanthemums.

The bride as Miss King has by her many qualities of admirable young womanhood become endeared to the friends of the city. She is highly educated and accomplished, and is of a very attractive type of beauty.

Mr. Young is possessed of the principles and qualities that make for a most commendable type of young man, and has a large circle of friends, both in the business and social circles.

After the wedding ceremony an informal reception was held, followed by an elegant supper. Mr. and Mrs. Young left on the night train for the north.

Weems-McGaughey.

At 6 o'clock, in the Presbyterian church at West End, last night, occurred the wedding of Miss Eva A. McGaughey and Mr. H. R. Weems.

A large assembly of relatives and friends was present at the impressive ceremony, and the church decorations were appropriate of palms, ferns and cut flowers. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss McGaughey. Mr. Claude H. Hutchison was best man, and the ushers were Mr. R. E. H. and Mr. George McGaughey. The bride's gown was of brown cloth, elegantly fashioned, and her becoming that was of brown. She carried pink carnations. The maid of honor was similarly attired, and carried carnations.

After the church ceremony the bride and groom were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McGaughey, the bride's parents, at an enjoyable reception.

Miss McGaughey is a lovely and attractive young woman with all the amiable qualities that are admired, and have won for her a large circle of friends. Mr. Weems is well known and popular among a large number of business and social friends, many of whom were present on the occasion of his wedding and hearty in their congratulations.

Not Strange

That so many people have lost confidence in medicines that have been palmed off on the public as "cures" for every disease with which the human race is afflicted and frequently persons refuse to believe anything they hear about a reliable remedy.

HORSE GUARDS WITHOUT LIEUTS

Both First and Second Lieutenants Retire
from Service.

ATKINS IS HONORABLY RETIRED

He Has Served the Requisite Term and Leaves the Service.

LIEUT. CASTLEBERRY SENDS IN RESIGNATION

The Guards Will Soon Hold Election
To Fill the Vacancies and Candidates Are Many.

The Governor's Horse Guards, the popular cavalry company, is without either a first or second lieutenant.

Both of those officers have retired from the service and the Guards will hold an election in a short time to fill the vacancies.

Lieutenant E. C. Atkins, who has served the company many years as first lieutenant, has been retired from the service. He has served the requisite ten years as an officer and now leaves the service honorably credited.

Second Lieutenant Zach Castleberry has sent his resignation to the authorities, and the same has been accepted. This leaves the company without an officer of the rank of lieutenant.

The retirement of Lieutenant Atkins has been recognized by the state adjutant's office and papers will be issued to him relieving him of further duties and service.

His has been a long and useful service in the military, he having served the Guards perhaps fourteen years as an officer. He was first lieutenant ten years ago.

Lieutenant Castleberry sent in his resignation because of his desire to devote his time to his business affairs and he leaves the company as an officer with the confidence of the members of the company.

The adjutant's office have not yet fixed a day for the election of successors to Lieutenants Atkins and Castleberry, but one will be named in a few days and then there will be a contest in the Guards for the places.

Among the several prospective candidates being mentioned by the members of the Guards for the place vacated by the retirement of Lieutenants Atkins and Castleberry there are several prominent names, among them John J. Woodside and George H. Brown. The friends of each are already at work among the Guards, and there is certain to be a lively contest for the places.

POLICE MATRON IS A FIXTURE

SPECIAL COMMITTEE WILL ASK THAT SHE BE RETAINED.

Chief's Recommendation as to Salary
and Rules Will Be Adopted.
Her Good Work.

The police matron will hold her position
at the police barracks.

At the last regular meeting of the commissioners' committee many made recommendations as to the position of matron.
He either favored abolishing the office altogether or paying her a salary and placing her under the rules of the department.

A special committee was appointed by the chairman of the board to look into the matter. That committee has been doing some investigating and it has ascertained that Miss Holloway, as matron, is doing some most valuable work and that it would be a mistake to abolish her services. So the committee will report that the position
should not be abolished.

The matron will be paid a salary and there will be regular rules laid down for her guidance.

For six months Miss Holloway has taken care of and looked after the unfortunate women who have been taken to the police barracks. In several instances she has sent home young girls who had come to the city to enter upon a life of shame. She attends to all the white female prisoners and while in some instances it looks as if she accomplished but little, yet it is a work which will take years perhaps for the full effect to be apparent. However, there are many instances in which the immediate effects are seen. Altogether she has looked after two hundred women and children.

"No," said a member of the special committee yesterday, "the office of police matron will not be abolished. Miss Holloway is doing a good work and we recognize it too well to even think for a moment of deleting her place vacant. We will pay her a salary and she will be placed under strict police rules, and that will give her a chance to do more good."

HONEST COWETA CITIZEN.

Called at Police Barracks and Paid an Old Fine.

P. W. Hilly, a citizen of Coweta county, walked into the police barracks and said he wished to pay a fine of $5.75, which the recorder had imposed against him three or four months ago.

The sergeant looked over the books and found, sure enough, that there was an old unpaid fine which had been held up by the recorder.

Hilly was tried in the recorder's court
nearly four months ago and was fined $5 and costs. He was from the country and he would let him go on his promise to pay
the fine the next time he came to Atlanta.
Yesterday Hilly arrived in the city, and true to his promise called at the barracks
and paid the full amount which he owed.

Are Betting Their Money.

Now that Jay Eaton has regained the indoor championship, he will have to defend it once more before the season closes here. Bob Walthour will try to take it away from him tonight in a match race, and Eaton will have to ride to defend his laurels. Manager Prince was very anxious to have Walthour in the big four-cornered race Tuesday night, but could not arrange it, so Walthour was shut out. Walthour then decided to challenge the winner of the race, and this he did on the night of the race. The winner happened to be Eaton.

Both men are in good trim and the match is expected to be a very interesting
